COTTON OR SUGAR.

A paper in New Orleans is attempting to make southern planters believe that it is more profitable to grow sugar-cane than cotton. The paper estimates that the yield of cotton to the acre is 300 pounds, which it regards as much above the average. This at 10 cents a pound would amount to $30. The expense of planting, cultivating, picking, ginning, baling and shipping the cotton would not be less than $20 per acre. Ten dollars is a good net profit on an acre of cotton. Twenty tons to the acre may be considered a fair average crop for sugar cane, says the paper, and then it goes on to say that 35 tons of cane is sometimes reached, about as often as a cotton planter gets a bale of cotton to the acre. While a ton of cane would yield more than 200 pounds of sugar by diffusion, and although Mr. Dan Thompson of Calumet plantation, reached an average of more than 207 pounds by the mill process last year, an estimate will be made on results that are commonly obtained, viz.: 150 pounds of sugar and six gallons of molasses. In round numbers this product sold for $10 last year and would bring over $12 at present abnormal prices. It is not an over-calculation to count the product of a ton of cane at $10. This would give a gross yield of $200 per acre against $30 for cotton.

The paper then concludes that sugar is a surer crop than cotton, and as safe in all respects, as any crop in the United States. It rarely if ever happens that any one hears of half a crop of sugar and that storms may blow the cane flat on the ground and whip it to pieces, but when the storm is over it lifts its head to the sun and goes on growing.

There is no product aside from wheat which is more important to the people of the United States than sugar, and its production other than by cane has been tried with many failures. If the statements of the New Orleans paper are true, why is it the southern planters do not engage more largely in sugar cane raising? If it is fifteen or twenty times more profitable than cotton one would suppose that sugar would be king. But it seems that the soil of no other state in the south than that of Louisiana will successfully produce sugar can. Other states have tried it, and as often as the trial has been made, there has been a failure. And even in Louisiana, according to statistics previously published in the Gazette, the annual production of the cane in that state has decreased very much in the past fifteen or twenty years.

THE BUYING OF VOTES.

One of his strenuous defenders insists that all who have opposed the election of Mr. Brice on the ground that he is chosen for his wealth must prove that he has been guilty of buying votes. This argument is the outcome of a dulled moral sense. It is not necessary to show that Mr. Brice bribed legislators in order to convict him of the charge of buying his seat. Mr. Brice made large money contributions to the democratic party in the recent presidential and gubernatorial elections [and to democratic candidates to help their elections of the legislature, thus placing them under personal and pecuniary obligations]. These contributions make him a candidate. There is no other reason for his election. He has no political reputation except such as he gained from the mismanagement of the campaign of 1888, and that would not secure his election as a hogreeve. Therefore his expenditure of money is to make him senator, and that is corruption, although he may not have bribed any one.—New York World.

It is no wonder that decent democratic papers are crying aloud against the Brice method of securing a seat in the United States senate. The experience the democracy of Ohio had with Senator Payne was enough to bring disgust to people who have consciences that cannot be stretched to suit any circumstance in a political contest, and to repeat that experience at the very next time another democratic senator was to be elected, is humiliating to the thoughtful men of the democratic party.

But the political stomach of the democratic leaders cannot be turned by such a little thing as using boodle in a senatorial contest, and therefore they will keep right on pointing with pride to the methods and traditions of the democratic party. The World said the other day that Mr. Brice's election would be a positive harm to the party, but there are no evidences outside of two or three papers that the sensibilities of the party have been touched by the disgrace at Columbus. A party that can take pride in Senator Payne, in the New York election methods, in the ballot box outrages of the south, in its connection with the sugar trust, in its cipher history of '76-77, and in its free trade policy, finds no trouble in being content with the purchase of a seat in the senate of the United States.

The old question of the state going into the school book publishing business is being revived. Governor Campbell, of Ohio, discusses the matter in his inaugural message, and uses this argument:

The state builds school-houses, provides teachers, and controls every detail of education save the furnishing of books. Is there any sound reason why it should not assume this function also? Recent experience in the state of Indiana shows that the school books equal to those in use here are delivered to the children of that state at 35 to 50 per cent. of their former cost. Other states have tried the experiment with apparent success. It seems to be an assured fact that school books can be furnished, either by direct publication of the state or by contract on behalf of the state, at less than present prices.

The states that have gone into the publishing business on the pretence of benefiting the public schools, have not been as successful as they hoped. There may be some ground for complaints in regard to the price of school books, but when the quality of paper used in them, the artistic merits of the illustrations, and the substantial character of the binding are considered, school books are no higher in price than other works on which there is a copyright. The tax on account of school books, with the present system of exchange, is very moderate when the general worth of the book is considered. It seems to be impossible for the state to produce books of such a high order of merit so far as the illustrations and the letter press work are concerned, as the great publishing houses do, and yet the difference in price does not favor the state very much. Minnesota has tried the state text book and rejected it; and Indiana, which has also tried it, would like to give it up.

A prominent woman of Cleveland, Ohio, who went to Florida to spend the winter, writes a letter to the Leader of that city on the spirit of the "unreconstructed" people in that state. She was there when Jeff Davis died, and the proprietor of the hotel and all his southern guests began to shed tears over the great loss to the south, and then began a series of eulogies of the great traitor, that disgusted the northern guests. The Cleveland woman told the proprietor that she had no love for Davis because he was not only a traitor, but was responsible for so much loss of life and property. The southern women at the hotel began to boycott her; would not eat at the same table with her, nor join with her in the usual social games. But the northern woman stood by her little gun, had the courage of her convictions, and showed in a very womanly way that she held treason and traitors in contempt. She says the orange groves and the hotels are full of the unreconstructed, and while they want northerners to go down there to spend money and invest capital, they want them either to believe in Jeff Davis and his cause or hold their tongues.

"In official circles at Washington," says a paragraph, "the ladies' toilets are attracting more attention than the statesmanship of the latter's husbands." This is not entirely inexplicable; for although some of the toilets may be rather abbreviated at the top, it is easy to remark that there is much more of them to attract attention than there is of the statesmanship.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The more the abreviation at the top the greater the attraction, so it seems. There does not seem to be any time in Washington to devote to statesmanship. Social mothers are soaring high; statesmanship is soaring low. There are many shining marks in the social circles, but the good old days of senatorial honor, when the great triumvirate commanded the admiration of all men, shine no more.

It is said that Mr. Blaine possesses one peculiarity common to men who deal with large and important measures. Big things never worry him, but little things stir him up in a minute. If word were received of a revolution in England Mr. Blaine would dictate the necessary instructions to the United States minister abroad with perfect equanimity. But if a water pipe should burst in the state department, he would be excited and bothered. So there are times when a plumber is mighter than a statesman.

Representative Stewart, of Vermont, has introduced in the house a bill declaring that no Mormon shall be eligible to vote at any election or hold civil office in the territories of the United States, or be naturalized as a citizen of the United States or settle upon any public lands. This is a good bill, but ten to one the democrats will vote against it.

The advice of an Illinois paper is timely and quite suggestive: "Don't have la grippe until you get it." Some people will save themselves from much trouble of mind and body if they will heed this advice.

Chicago, which has had the political influenza, is much better now. President Harrison has made two important appointments for that city.

Sam Jones says there are some things past praying for. A reformation in Sam Jones' vulgar pulpit talk seems to be one of them.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—Miss Tilla Olde and her sister, Mrs. Ella Oleson, went to Chicago last week Tuesday to attend the bible school.

—Between forty and fifty of our citizens both old and young have been on the sick list during the past week and others coming down continually with what is called Russian grippe, but we should think it had become Yankeefied by this time and it might more appropriately be called the Yankee grippe.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murwin and family, of Fulton, have been visiting at Alex B. Jones's the past week. Mrs. Murwin and Mrs. Jones are sisters.

—There is quite an excitement in town over the Crandall and Thompson cases. It is hard predicting what the outcome will be.

—Alex. B. Jones has shipped his bowling alley outfit to Beloit, where he will set it up and run it the balance of the winter. He will move his family there sometime next week.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Butts were in Janesville, Tuesday on business.

WALKER BLAINE DEAD.

THE SON OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE SUCCUMBS.

Pneumonia, Succeeding Influenza, the Malady---Business in Congress---News From the Nation's Capital.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Mr. Walker Blaine died at 8:20 Wednesday night. His death was peaceful and so sudden that the members of his family, who were summoned when it became apparent that the end was near, were unable to return to his bedside before he breathed his last.

Walker Blaine was the oldest living son of Secretary and Mrs. Blaine, and was born in 1855. He has always been closely connected with his father ever since he became of age, and at the beginning of the present administration was appointed commissioner of claims of the State Department, which position he filled with marked ability. He was third assistant Secretary of State when his father was Secretary in Garfield's administration. On Friday last he was attacked by influenza, but was doing well until Tuesday, when symptoms of acute pneumonia appeared, and his condition became serious. Tuesday night he became delirious and never recovered consciousness. Consulting doctors were called in to assist Dr. Magruder Wednesday, and that afternoon some improvement was noted, but it was only for a short time.

Secretary Blaine and family were completely prostrated. This is the third death in the family in a month. The first was that of Mrs. Blaine's sister, the Secretary's brother followed and now Walker Blaine. No arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it is understood that the remains will be taken to Augusta, Me.

CONGRESSIONAL.

A Day's Business in Both Houses---The House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In the House consideration of the bill providing for an appropriation of $75,000 to cover the individual losses sustained by members by Silcott's defalcation was resumed.

Congressman Stewart, of Vermont, argued at length to the effect that Silcott, as the recognized agent of members of the House, occupied the position of a disbursing officer of the government, and as such was recognized by the treasury department, and that members should therefore feel no hesitancy in voting for this appropriation to reimburse themselves for the losses sustained.

The debate continued throughout the afternoon. On Mr. Hemphill's substitute, which proposed sending the entire question to the court of claims, the vote was 136 yeas and 138 nays. On Mr. Adams' bill, which appropriates the money for the repayment to members of the amount stolen, the vote was 126 yeas and 142 nays.

The bill being thus defeated, a motion was made to reconsider. Pending a vote on this the House adjourned.

At the opening of the session Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, rising to a question of privilege, denied the charge that he introduced a bill for the abolition of the tax on oleomargarine.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In the Senate Mr. Sherman introduced a concurrent resolution providing for the settlement of disputes between nations by arbitration. After the introduction of a few measures the resolution to recognize the Republic of Brazil was read. Mr. Turpie proceeded to make a few remarks on the subject. He said that the United States had taken a position of strict neutrality and supine indifference, but that the time has come for a republic can not be denied. Two things always result from a revolution, the abrogation of the right of Kings, falsely called divine, and the other the sovereign right of the people to rule.

Mr. Turpie criticised severely the tardiness of the administration in recognizing the republic. He quoted the action of former Presidents in similar cases, especially that of Grant in regard to France, and closed by saying: "The delay of our recognition has already been misconstrued. I hope it may come soon enough to prevent further mistakes."

The Senate went into executive session at 2:40 and adjourned at 4:30.

FRAUD IN OKLAHOMA.

Charges Against Register Dilley Sent to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The reports of Special Agents McBride and Pickler, who investigated the charges that certain parties were given advantages in the selection of lots and lands in Oklahoma, have been sent to the Senate. They state that the register at Guthrie allowed Mark Cohn and J. E. Dilley, half-brother of the register, and others, to file plots before noon on the day of the opening of the land offices, and also that Commissioner Akers, of Kansas, was responsible for the introduction of a large number of persons into Oklahomr under the guise of special deputies, who really did no service, but were thus enabled to get advantages in the selection of lots. Register Dilley replies, denying the charges and saying that the parties whom he was charged with giving supposed advantages were not friends of his and were not given any privileges to which they were not entitled.

Coinage, Weights and Measures.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The House committee on coinage, weights and measures called upon Secretary Windom at the Treasury department this morning and discussed informally the question of silver coinage. The Secretary informed the committee that he was preparing a bill on that subject, embodying the features of the plan outlined in his annual report, which he expected to have ready for submission to Congress by next Monday.

New National Banks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The comptroller of the currency has authorized the organization of the Merchants' National bank of Sioux City, Iowa, and the First National bank of Wymore, Neb., the former with $100,000 capital and the latter with $50,000.

A Newspaper Suspends.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Daily Press, which was started in December, 1889, by E. B. Fox, as the organ of the administration, has suspended publication. There is no Republican daily paper here now.

Walker Blaine Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Mr. Walker Blaine, Solicitor of the State Department, is reported to be seriously ill this morning. He took a severe cold several days ago, and it has developed into pneumonia. His family and friends are very much alarmed at his condition. A consultation of physicians in regard to his case was held this afternoon.

THE VOTE STILL 50 TO 50.

No Break in the Iowa Deadlock---Three Sick Republicans.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 16.—The Senate held a short session Wednesday morning. A number of resolutions were introduced, providing for the appointment of a committee on mileage, house organization, inaugural, and journal. An adjournment was then taken until 2 p. m. Thursday.

In the House filibustering was the first thing in order. The number of sick Republicans increased during the night and Wednesday morning three were ill. They were Gardner of Washington, Yergy of Montgomery, and Smith of Mitchell. After half an hour of filibustering the first roll-call of the day took place, the vote resulting 50 to 50 for temporary clerk. The candidates were Fred Lehmann (Dem.) and Ben Vansteinburg (Rep.)

After another ballot had been taken it was apparent that nothing definite could be done. A resolution was adopted for pairing, and this will do away with the attendance of sick men. The House then adjourned until 10 a. m. Thursday.

THE MONTANA DEADLOCK.

Another Proposition of the Republicans Rejected.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 16.—Speaker Witter, of the Republican House of Representatives, made a proposition today to Speaker Blakely, of the Democratic House, that the contesting delegations from Silver Bow county return home and the remaining members, twenty-five Republicans and twenty-four Democrats, get together and proceed to legislate. The Democrats promptly refused to entertain the proposition, but offered to join the Republicans on an even basis, twenty-four and twenty-four, which the Republicans refused to do. Lieut.-Gov. Rickards announced the Senate committees to-day and put all the Democrats on the tail end. He explained his action by saying that he could not trust his political opponents. The deadlock is as far as ever from a solution, and there is no likelihood of the present Legislature doing any business whatever.

BRICE DECLARED SENATOR.

Formal Proceedings at Columbus, Ohio ---Much Enthusiasm.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 16.—The House and Senate met in joint session Wednesday at noon and formally declared Calvin S. Brice elected to the United States Senate. Mr. Brice made a brief speech of acknowledgment and was presented to the members. The hall was crowded, many ladies being present, among them Mrs. Brice.

FEARFUL FLOOD AT CARMI, ILL.

Three Hundred People Driven from Homes and the Town in Immediate Peril.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 16.—Three hundred people at Carmi have been compelled to leave their homes by a sudden rise in the Little Wabash river and it is feared that a still larger number will be forced to abandon their dwellings and take refuge on high ground to escape a huge flood which is expected to sweep down from the swollen tributaries into the river. Carmi is about one hundred miles north of here on the Cairo & Vincennes road. The river is out of its banks and the north part of the town is overflowed to the depth of twenty feet in some places, and from seventy-five to one hundred houses are submerged. The houses have all been vacated, the people seeking refuge in the spare rooms of their neighbors in the south part of the town. The heavy rains, which began Sunday morning and continued until Wednesday night, have swollen all the tributaries of the Little Wabash. Brooks have become rivers and rivers torrents, and in the aggregate they have poured a vast body of water into the river, which has overflowed its banks not only at Carmi, but at many other points along its course. Vast stretches of low land and meadow are submerged and a number of animals have been carried away or drowned in the fields. Fence rails, boards and other drift borne down stream by the raging waters indicate that farmers have suffered severely. Much hay on bottom lands is ruined.

It is reported that the worst is yet to come, and that the people in towns along the Little Wabash are preparing for the worst. At Corwin it is expected the river will rise fifteen feet higher, and if this happens the result will be simply appalling. People in the south part of the town who are now sheltering the unfortunate who have been driven from their dwellings on the lowlands at the north end, would themselves be forced to vacate, and in all probability many of the houses which are now partly under water would be unable to withstand the pressure and would be carried down stream. The inhabitants are fully aware of their danger, however, and it is not likely that any loss of life will follow unless a vast rush of water should suddenly overwhelm the town at night.

A sad feature of the disastrous visitation is the suffering which it inflicts upon the poor. Three hundred people have been driven from their homes. They are the poorer class of the city, and their houses in many cases were shells, which are going to pieces in the water.

DISEASED PORK.

A Minnesota Health Officer Makes a Startling Discovery.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 16.—A startling discovery was made this morning by a health officer that diseased meat had been deliberately placed on the market here. In the slaughter-house just outside the city thirteen hogs died from cholera yesterday. They were dressed ready for the market. In one pen six were found dying from cholera, and in another twelve were dead from cholera. They were being prepared for the market.

AFFAIRS ACROSS THE SEA.

THE PORTUGUESE SITUATION EXPLAINED.

An Editor on Trial for Libel—The Prussian Diet—Rumors of the Czar's Insanity—Old World News

LISBON, Jan. 15.—At 1 o'clock this morning the police arrested seventy persons who were parading the streets and shouting: "Down with England."

In the Chamber of Deputies Premier Pimental said the new government had come into office at a grave juncture. Portugal has the right and Great Britain the might, but the government, having regard for the honor of the nation, will uphold the interest and dignity of the country. He announced the ministry's program of reforms and said that he should not ask for the support of the majority, for he knew that was impossible. Senhor Beirao, minister of justice in the late cabinet, said the majority was unable to repose full confidence in the ministry, but would support the government in the settlement of all problems involving the national honor.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—It is stated that several European statesmen have in a friendly manner expressed to Lord Salisbury their fears that England's action in the Portuguse dispute will be made a pretext for republican activity in Spain and Portugal, which will endanger the thrones at Madrid and Lisbon. The Queen dowager of Portugal has resolved to implore the influence of her brother, King Humbert, of Italy, in behalf of Portugal.

ON TRIAL FOR LIBEL.

Lord Euston's Suit Against Editor Parke Being Tried.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The trial of the suit brought by the Earl of Euston against Mr. Parke, editor of the North London Press, for criminal libel in asserting that the Earl was implicated in the West End scandal, began to-day and attracted a large attendance of titled persons, journalists, and others.

A number of witnesses were called by the prosecution by whose testimony it was proved that Earl Euston was a frequent visitor at the Cleveland street house, The Earl, who was present, was called to the stand, but refused to be examined. Mr. Parke was then examined. His testimony was largely in the form of justification of the charges brought by him in his paper. Other witnesses were put on the stand by whom it was proved that the Earl of Euston was guilty of criminal conduct.

The emphasis he placed on these words had a reassuring effect. The members of the Diet cheered the Emperor's speech.

ROME, Jan. 16.—The Pope has issued an encyclical which sets forth the principles which shall guide Catholics in their relations toward the State, which, the encyclical says, they must obey when such a course does not entail disobedience to the divine laws. In countries where the State oppresses Catholicism, Catholics must combat the enemy, but must not tie the church to any political party.

Waked Up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous chologogues. A gentler, pleasanter and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouched for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the biliary organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant upon health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effects is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness, debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—In the stock market there was a renewed attempt to break prices all along the line this morning, but it was met by good support throughout the list and the result was an active market, with a well-distributed business and considerable irregularity of prices. Opening figures, owing to the pressure, were generally slight fractions lower than last evening's prices, and the pressure of stocks for sale resulted in further declines of small fractions. These losses were generally recovered, however, when the pressure was abated somewhat, and many stocks were carried above the opening prices. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady at about opening prices. There was no feature of interest after 11 o'clock. At noon the market was dull and steady, generally at about opening prices.

THREE CRONIN ASSASSINS AT WORK.

Coughlin Pounding Stone, Burke Making Barrels, and O'Sullivan Laboring as a Cobbler—Criminal

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 16.—Three big convicts, dressed in loose-fitting suits of striped flannel, marched clumsily through the receiving-room into the office of the deputy warden of the penitentiary, Capt. Merrill, shortly after breakfast Wednesday morning. Their faces and heads were shaven and shorn, their arms were tagged and their feet were incased in the heavy shoes that are turned out of the prison shops. As the three men entered the office, followed by a grim guard, armed with a heavy cane, Capt. Merrill arose and calmly surveyed their proportions as a horse dealer would examine a proposed purchase.

"You are Martin Burke," he said, approaching the leader of the trio of convicts.

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply.

"You look like a likely fellow, Burke," said the deputy approvingly, as he ran his trained hand across the chest of the man from Mayo. "What is your business? What can you do?"

"I'm a laborer, sir," Burke replied.

"Ah! An excellent recruit for the cooper shop. You'll learn the trade quickly, I have no doubt, and will soon be a valuable workman."

The captain wrote a word or two on a blue ticket, which he handed to the guard, and Burke's life assignment was made.

Dan Coughlin, looking so radically changed that his own wife would not know him, stood beside Burke, and when Captain Merrill's attention was turned to him he promptly asked to be placed in the stone sheds, because he understood that the occupation was a healthy one. His request was promptly granted.

O'Sullivan, who, like his companions, was without a trade, had no request to make, and Capt. Merrill ordered him into one of the shoe shops. This business over, the three murderers, with Burke in the lead, formed the lock-step and hastened out to the prison yard, where they were separated. Burke was conducted to the cooper shop and handed over to the tender mercies of a foreman. Coughlin proceeded directly to the stone sheds, where he spent the day wielding a huge hammer among a crowd of the toughest criminals whose presence ever disgraced even a penitentiary. Perhaps Dan met an old acquaintance or two in the gang, for when he was a detective he was instrumental in sending a good many fellows to the penitentiary. O'Sullivan's advent in the shoe shop was quiet and uninteresting. He promptly settled down on a bench, and, acting under the direction of a skilled workman, proceeded to learn how to sole a shoe. Of the three murderers O'Sullivan was the only one visibly affected by his disagreeable surroundings. His face was paler than usual—so pale, in fact, that his keeper thought he was sick. Tears came to his eyes when he was first ordered to don the prison stripes, and they have been flowing at intervals all day. There can be no sort of doubt about the erstwhile iceman breaking down, and very rapidly at that. The strain has been too much for him.

From this time out the Cronin murderers will be but mere parts of a vast machine that has 1,400 separate wheels, which grind on behind the grim, gray walls. Their identity is buried, their names have become numbers and they are rated by the State as so many pieces of merchandise. Their keenest disappointment will probably come when they find that they are as thoroughly separated as if thousands of miles intervened between them. After the many months they spent in jail, where they were boom companions and where they were enabled to exchange confidences, they will find it hard to be kept apart. Their only chance to meet will come on the Fourth of July, when all the prisoners are turned loose in the yard and given an hour or two to seek out old pals and enjoy the luxury of exchanging reminiscences.

A BANK VICTIMIZED

A Toronto Institution Robbed by Its Clerks

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 16.—The report of a big defalcation by clerks at the Ontario bank here caused some excitement among business men to-day. The report at first was that a number of the clerks had victimized the bank to the tune of $80,000 and had skipped out after a carefully devised scheme to relieve the bank of funds extending over several months. It has been found. however, on investigation of the books that the irregularities have been confined to two of the clerks. One, named Moffatt, a young society man, who was recently accountant of the bank, admits that he failed to make a proper audit of the books of one of the ledger keepers for several months, and the shortages have been traced to this particular ledger keeper, who has mysteriously left the city. It appears from Brown's books that he allowed customers to overdraw their accounts to the amount of about $50,000, without the knowledge or consent of the manager.

GOV. LARRABEE'S SURPRISE

He Pardons Young Turney, Whose Mother Sued the Governor for Libel

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 16.—Gov. Larrabee has surprised everybody by pardoning Chester Turney. Turney is the young man who on Dec. 10, 1885, was commited to the penitentiary for seventeen and one-half years for burglary and larceny. The case is a remarkable one. It was said that the trial was irregular, the conviction unjust and the sentence excessive. The boy's mother interested the churches and press and many prominent people in his behalf, and out of this case grew the Governor's arrest and trial for libel last February. So great was the pressure in the boy's behalf that the Governor had published a pamphlet to show why he did not pardon the young man and made it up of letters and newspaper articles, some of which reflected on Mrs. Turney. He was tried and acquitted. This is the most famous pardon case in Iowa.

Notes From the Yard.

If you are thinking of going into duck raising, now is the time to begin. By many the Pekin is considered the best, white plumage, yellow bill and redish orange legs. There is a handsome profit in ducks.

Chickens are as perverse as people, and just as a man will often drink vile liquors when he can get pure sweet water, so fowls will often abandon their drinking vessels and slack their thirst at some dirty puddle. With them as with human beings, prohibition is the only safeguard.

MANGLED BY AN EXPLOSION.

One Man Killed and Nearly a Dozen Badly Hurt at Fallston, Pa

BRIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—At 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the boiler of the steam shovel used by the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railway company in excavating at Fallston, Pa., exploded with such force that several pieces were blown across the river and driven into the ground a fourth of a mile away. Besides the regular force employed in running the machine a number of Italians and the conductors and engineer of train No. 1 were sitting in a tool car back of the shovel. All were more or less injured.

Wesley Francis of Mount Washington (Pittsburg), repairer of boilers and engines, who had just arrived, had both legs broken and was badly mangled. He died on his way to the hospital.

The injured were:

MART DICKEY, of Fallston, burned about hands and face.

WILLIAM MOCK; burned about the face.

WILLIAM RICE; bruised and burned.

WILLIAM GRIFFIN, engineer, head cut.

Five other men were slightly hurt. It is believed that several of the wounded will die. The boiler seemed to be in good condition, and the gauge indicated forty pounds of steam. The cause of the explosion has not been determined, but the machine has been in use for many years. The tool car caught fire and two barrels of oil stowed therein increased the destruction. All windows in the vicinity were broken and the shovel demolished.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS OF STATE.

Important Questions to Be Laid Before the Dominion Parliament.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 16.—The Dominion Parliament met to-day, and the session will prove very lively, as the radical issues, involving the abolition of French as an official language will be fully discussed. The speech from the throne delivered by the Governor-General promises to prove unusually interesting, but will contain no reference to the Atlantic fishery or the trade questions. The dominion government for the last year has impatiently waited for overtures from the United States for a settlement of the former dispute, but so far Secretary Blaine evinces no anxiety to re-enter into negotiations on the subject. The Governor-General, it is understood, will speak plainly regarding the Behring Sea question. The attention of the imperial government has been called to the situation and strong pressure brought to bear by the Canadian government to resist the claim of any nation to exercise exclusive jurisdiction on those seas. Parliament is likely to be asked to amend the banking act. There is a public feeling in favor of the adoption of the American banking system, but this change will not likely be carried out at present.

FLOODS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The Streams in the Neighborhood of Pittsburg Rapidly Rising

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—The heavy rains of the last twenty-four hours have swollen all the small streams in Western Pennsylvania, and dispatches received last night indicate considerable damage in Washington, Westmoreland, and Allegheny counties in Pennsylvania, and in the vicinity of Wheeling, W. Va. All the small streams are bank full and the low lands are inundated. Small bridges, fences and outhouses have been washed away, and a great flood is feared if the rain continues. It is still raining here and the rivers are rising.

Sarah Althea's Final Defeat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—The end of the notorious Sharon divorce case was seen to-day when Judge Shafter denied the demurrer of Sarah Althea to the supplementary answer to the Sharon heirs to the United States court's decree declaring the marriage contract a forgery. Sarah practically admitted her case was lost by failing to appear personally or by counsel. It is not expected that the case will ever appear in court again.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

THE FARM

Give Credit to the Farm

When you made up the farm accounts for the past year did you give the farm credit for the living you have had from it? If not, the farm did not have its just due, for if you had been in other business you would have been compelled to pay cash for much that you used without stint. The garden and field supplies you with a large share of the summer's living, and the probabilities are that you have potatoes, turnips, beets and other vegetables stored in the cellar for winter use. The beef, mutton, pork and chickens that furnish your meat supply, if bought by the townsman would have drawn heavily upon the pocketbook. Credit the farm with this. There are eggs, butter, milk and cream that have been used in such quantities as to be beyond the reach of the dweller in town who has any ordinary salary. All these, with the wheat, corn or rye used in the home cooking, should be credited to the farm just as much and just as honestly as the corn, oats, wheat, pigs, steers or milk sold from it. If this is fairly done, a man can get a better idea of the relative advantage of farming and other kinds of business.

The farmer who leaves the farm, moves to a village and has all these things to pay for, begins to realize what it costs in money to live in town. When he was on the farm he charged all his outgoes to the expenses of the farm, and then never (this is the rule too often) gave the farm any credit for luxuries as well as necessaries that he used so freely—thought the farm was running him in debt all the while, when the fact was he was getting a good living from it, and the farm and stock on it were increasing in value. Before complaining of the farm not paying, give it the credit that belongs to it, then figure up the account and see how it stands.

A Small Farm Well Tilled.

As an illustration of what can be accomplished by practicing intensive farming a Southern paper states that Hon. J. R. McLendon, of Montgomery county, Virginia, on a 60-acre farm naturally poor, cultivated with the aid of horses, last year had eight or ten bales of cotton, 500 bushels of corn, 50 tons of hay, 1,000 bushels of potatoes, 300 bushels of oats, 2,000 pounds of bacon, $300 worth of vegetables, $100 of seed, ten barrels of syrup, $150 to $200 miscellaneous articles, besides raising one or two colts, four or five cows and calves, and sundry minor things, aggregating in value $3,000 to $3,500. He purchased as fertilizers for his crops last year, two tons of cotton seed meal, and made 50 tons of barnyard manure. His lands are not so well adapted to the grasses as are the lands of many portions of the State, yet he showed seventeen different varieties of hay in bales, 80 different varieties of grass, seven of field peas, four of sorghum, and something of almost every product of the soil that can be grown between the Potomac river and the Gulf of Mexico. What Mr. McLendon has done on his little sixty acres in cultivation can be done by the farmers in all portions of the State, full seventy-five per cent of whom have a large advantage in their favor in lands of better natural capacity for production.

Agricultural Notes.

Start a farmers' club, a reading club, a debating society, or something of the sort, in your neighborhood this winter.

"If you were willing to be as pleasant and as anxious to please in your own home as you are in the company of your neighbors, you might have the happiest home in the world."

Much enthusiasm animates the various divisions of the Agricultural department, under the direction of Secretary Rusk. Each division vies with the others in the issuance of instructions and valuable papers.

The Department of Agriculture Statistician says that the total acrage in potatoes last year was 2,500,000, and the average yield seventy-six bushels. Did your field help to pull down the average?

The State Department at Washington learns that there will be a great deal of United States wheat wanted in Uruguay, South America, next year, as there was this. Ordinarily that country raises enough to bread its own citizens. Uruguay is purely a pastoral country. Cattle and sheep raising are there very profitable.

"Whether farming pays can be answered in a variety of ways. I was recently talking to a farmer who was harrowing by the road-side, using an old-fashioned harrow, with wooden teeth twelve inches long and two inches in diameter. His wagon stood by with one odd wheel. This man remarked with a groan that farming didn't pay. When spoken to about better implements, he replied that he wasn't going to have any of those new-fangled things on his place."

LIVE STOCK.

Unequal Mating.

How often one sees teams unmatched in size—one small, ill-fitted for heavy service, the other strong enough to haul his part of 5,000 pounds on any ordinary road, and each horse drawing an equal share of his load. If the driver is asked why he does not give each horse an equal share of the draft according to his weight he may perhaps answer that the little horse is fed just as big a ration as the large one, and he must take his chance. Perhaps the small horse is getting at least one-fourth more grain than his stomach will digest, and would be far better off with less grain; while probably the ration too large for the small horse is not sufficient for the large horse. Thus we may find teams driven for years at service which would be easily performed by the larger horse alone, if judiciously fed, while the small horse, whose lot would be hard enough under any circumstances, is made to suffer still more from overfeeding. Each horse in the team, if sound and of age for good service, should in general be made to perform his share of the team's labor, according to his weight.

To accomplish this in a simple manner, the hole in the double whiffletree, or evener, by which it is attached to the tongue of the wagon, should not be midway between the two ends, but so far from the middle point that the distance from this hole to one end will be as much greater than the distance to the other end as one horse is heavier than the other. If, for example, one horse weighs 1,200 pounds, the other 800 pounds, then one-third heavier, one arm of the evener should be one-third longer than the other. Then hitch the heavier horse to the longer arm. It is true that horses will not always draw in proportion with their weight; a small, wiry animal may work more easily than a large, loose-built one; and if the owner can make due allowance for this so much the better; but even if he should leave this out of consideration, give us guess-work in equalizing the draft and do nothing more than is shown above, he will be surprised to find how much of an advantage he has been giving to the larger horse.

The Individuality of Animals.

The individuality of animals should always be carefully studied. Animals differ as human beings differ. They differ in tastes, dispositions and temperaments. One animal will be fonder of certain kinds of food than another may be, and that being its nature, it will likely do better if fed upon such foods occasionally. One animal may be a greedy eater and another may "mince matters." One may be, like many men, a perfect hustler in all that it does. The other may be slow and deliberate, and this indifference in animals not infrequently works great injury to the milder-mannered, more deliberate animal. Place the hustler and such an animal at the same trough to drink or the same manger to feed and the hustler will get all the water and eat most of the food. See to it that each animal gets its rights and has its whims gratified at least to some extent. But that will necessitate an acquaintance with every animal in the herd, and that is precisely what every owner of animals ought to have. We never can properly direct a thing toward the full accomplishment of its purpose unless we know precisely how to manage it.

Mutton and Wool.

At a recent Farmers' Institute in Wisconsin Geo. McKerrow said, that any farmer who has been a sheep raiser and a wool grower any length of time, has made money; he is a success financially. Mutton is the first consideration; wool the second; the market is asking for a better class of mutton; I can raise mutton at four cents per pound; that price pays expenses, and more than that is profit. No animal is more profitable for the farm than the sheep; the Merino is a good breed; the Down breed is good; good mutton is made by good food, ensilage is one of the best feeds, better than dry feed; mixed ration is the best for sheep as for all stock. At Cornell University an experiment was made which shows that clover hay, oats, bran and cotton seed meal is the best feed both for mutton and wool; the best of the Western sheep is not gilt-edged; sheep raised in southern Wisconsin sell for a higher price in Chicago; the highest profit goes to the credit of the southdown. Clover hay is a good feed; so also is bran and oats, these are also a good feed for lambs; ensilage is also good; as a pasture clover is preferable; sheep do not need a warm stable, but a dry one and protected from storms; the poorest land makes a good sheep pasture and they should have clean fresh water.

Live Stock Notes.

The hog, properly raised, is the "nimble sixpence" of the modern farm.

There are quite as weighty reasons for keeping clean the pens of hogs as the stalls of horses.

There is something else to be aimed at in breeding and feeding hogs besides the amount of lard they will make.

A farmer says salt has the effect, when hogs can get it, of promoting digestion and preventing acidity.

If you have an abundance of straw, do not be afraid to use it liberally as bedding for your stock. Used so, its decomposition is hastened, and what of liquid manure it absorbs adds so much to its value as a vertilizer. Besides, your stock will be more comfortable.

The new officers of the National Swine Breeders' Association are: President, B. R. Vale, Bonaparte, Iowa; Vice-President, N. H. Gentry, Sedalia, Mo.; Secretary, Phil M. Springer, Springfield, Ill.; Treasurer, J. A. Countryman, Lindinwood, Ills.; Executive Committee, C. W. Jones, Richland, Mich.; S. E. Morton, Camden, Ohio; D. L. Thomas, Rushville, Ind.; H. M. Sisson, Galesburg, Ill., and President, Secretary and Treasurer.

At a Farmers Institute Thos. Convey advised the liberal feeding of bran and shorts for their fertilizing value; also a rotation of crops grown on the farm, thereby retaining the elements drawn from the soil by the crops grown. He also advises summer feeding of grain; also a rotation of crops. Save the manure; it looses one-fourth of its value by lying in the yard during summer. Haul it to the land in the winter. Clover is one of the best fertilizers. If you wish to raise good crops you must handle your manure to the best advantage.

In feeding and fattening hogs it is important to have a lot as near of the same size, weight and quality, as possible; it will sell for a better price than a lot of various sizes and weights. If, when fatted, there are a few small ones, or one of extra size, the lot will sell for more in the average if you take these out and kill for home use, or dress for near market, or sell when a shipment is being made of hogs that average with them.

HORTICULTURE.

The Apple Crop o the United States.

The Philadelphia Ledger says in 1888 New York State furnished the bulk of the apple crop of the United States; last year the crop was a failure in that State, and what few it produced are of inferior quality. Michigan looms up as he banner apple-bearing State last year, its crop, Mr. Hellings estimates, being 1,000,000 barrels, the heaviest crop it has produced for ten years. This apple product of Michigan is, it is thought, over half the product of the United States. Southern Illinois has raised a fair crop, but the fruit is "clouded" and otherwise inferior, while on the contrary, the Michigan product is the finest ever grown anywhere, and of a greater number of varieties. Mr. Hellings' advices from the West are to the effect that the crop is being shipped away very rapidly, not only to the East but to the farther West. The growers are disposing of their fruit at once, only keeping enough for their own use.

Mr. Hellings also stated that his firm was shipping apples to Boston and New York, at an advance over Philadelphia prices.

In 1888 Europe received 1,800,000 barrels, and so greatly are American apples preferred there that its people are already clamoring for them even at the advanced price. The indications are that so much of the reduced crop of last year will be exported as to make a severely felt scarcity in this country later in the season. New York State alone produced 1,500,000 barrels in 1888, and had not Michigan come to the rescue, apples this season would have been a luxury instead of a necessity.

Reclaiming Arid Lands.

Commenting upon the proposed bill for the reclaiming of arid lands, the Examiner says: The actual work of irrigation, after the field is thoroughly mapped out, belongs more to the State than to the National government. But if the government retains the lands to be benefitted, the State cannot afford to reclaim them. If all the arid lands in California were ceded to the State, we should be justified in carrying on a complete and perfect system of irrigation. It would not be good policy to sell the land, at least not at first. The State should keep it and rent it. In that way the public would get the benefit of the "unearned increment" which the growth of population would soon add to the value of the soil, and the payment of the irrigation bonds would be no burden to anybody.

Scratched 28 Years

Cured by Cuticura
If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in spots not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring worm, psoriasis, etc. I took... and......Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura remedies too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of Cuticura and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases,") but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose, I am all well. I scratched twenty eight years, and it got to be a second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Anything more that you want to know, write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it —The dancing party given by Division No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians, at Columbia hall last evening, was a very successful affair. The canvas was down and all had a jolly time. The party was an invitation affair and all participants enjoyed themselves until after mid-night. Tuckwood's, orchestra furnished the music. Isaac Connors, Wm. Cunningham and Charles Daley officiated as floor managers.

—Yesterday was Mr. H. M. Weaver's forty-eighth birthday. A few friends were aware of the fact, and planned a surprise on him. About thirty met at a neighbor's and marched to his home in a body. To say that Mr. Weaver was surprised, but mildly expresses it. Bountiful refreshments were served, and all enjoyed themselves until a late hour, when they dispersed to their homes, wishing Mr. Weaver many more happy birthdays.

—The Bower City Band will give their concert and dance at Light Infantry Armory to-night. The boys should have a big attendance, as the entertainment is given to aid in defraying the large expense that orginization is under. Dancing will commence at eight o'clock. Turn out and help the boys. Tickets 50 cents.

—General Viscount Wolseley will contribute to the February number of Harper's Magazine an article on "The Standing Army of Great Britain," which has been elaborately illustrated by R. Caton Woodville. The author has not hesitated, it is said, to criticise the English military administration with perfect frankness. For example, he remarks: "Until public opinion forces us to keep the army sufficiently strong to enable it to properly discharge the duties imposed upon it with due regard to the health of the men, and until we deal with our soldiers on the business principles on which the United States treat theirs as to food and pay, short of resorting to some form or other of compulsory service, it is impossible that it can ever be as efficient and as useful as it ought to be."

—"Mr. Findlay McGregor in his time played so many parts that it is puzzling to know how to describe him. A more versatile, accomplished, entertaining and facetious entertainer of the public is rarely met with. Scotch songs of every description, from the grave to gay, from the lively to severe, came with equal aptness from his generous mouth, and then the same marvelous repository of sounds, imitating harps, bagpipes, flutes, cornets, and other instruments with exactitude simply bewildering. As an interpreter of Scotch songs Mr. McGregor is ranked with the renowned Kennedy, and in general ability for fun-making he surpasses even that master of mirth himself. His extentions were really tremendous, his costumes excellent and appropriate, and his whole performance one to be long remembered by all who had the good fortune to see and hear it."—Ottawa Citizen. At Burns' anniversary 23d inst.

HON. R. G. HORR

AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH MONDAY EVENING.

The next entertainment of the People's Lecture course will be given on Monday evening next, at the Congregational church, on which occasion Hon. R. G. Horr will deliver the lecture. The following is from the Lafayette Courier:

Everybody who was fortunate enough to hear the lecture of Hon. R. G. Horr at the opera house last night will have something to think about for some time to come, as the result of what they heard from the lips of the witty philosopher who so deftly dissected human nature, turned shams inside out, and exposed the frailties of modern society and the weaknesses of mistaken individuals who seek to strut in borrowed plumage. It is the natural man who is the successful man, and no better illustration could be furnished the subject of Judge Horr's lecture than himself. His past and present success is no doubt is due to his own individuality. In personal appearance he may be compared to the old-fashioned roses which our Hoosier poet tells about, which

Have no stile about 'em
And are sort o' pale and faded—

but his very awkwardness is charming. His quaint speech and his utter disregard for conventional gestures makes the indellible impression on the mind of his auditors that he is honest—that it is his individual way of thinking and and acting, and the truths he presents are so evident that we forget his disregard for forms and flourishes, and fall in love with him for his sake alone It is refreshing to find among the tinsel of modern society an occasional man who has the courage of his convictions—who can look the devil in the face and tell him he is a devil, and more men are needed of the fearless character of Judge Horr who spurn machine-made forms and sugar-coated ettiquette, and who are not deterred by false notions of propriety from tearing off the mask which conceals the face of cringing hypocrisy.

A BAD LITTLE BOY.

"Here, Jennie, is thirty-five cents, go down to the drug store and buy some quinine for your father's "grippe."

The coin was safely stowed away in the end of a little red mitten and Jennie started out on her errand.

Just as she turned the corner of Madison street she met a boy; he had in his hand a bright new almanac and being generously disposed he said to the little girl:

"Don't you want this new book?"
"Yes, course I do."
"Got any money?"
"Yes."
"How much?"
"Thirty-five cents."
"Le' me see it?"
"But you won't give it back."
"You bet I will."

Off came the mitten and the silver was held by the boy of brief acquaintance. While he admired the specie, Jennie admired the pamphlet. Looking up from a fascinating picture she discovered shortly that a good deal of vacancy existed where the boy so recently stood, and hurrying to the corner, she had the pleasure of seeing the young book agent half a block away, engaged in frantic efforts to beat the record against time. She invited him, by a vigorous shout, to stop, but he wasn't built that way. The family might enjoy the almanac if they understood German, but as they don't, they still enjoy the grip. If the enterprising youth will return the quarter, he can have his almanac, and ten cents for a start in life.

NYE AND RILEY.

THEY DELIGHT A FASHIONABLE AUDIENCE AT COURT STREET CHURCH.

The "twin cherubs," Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, entertained a large and fashionable audience last evening at Court Street church, it being their first appearance before a Janesville audience. Nye and Riley are evidently "a mis-matched" team, harnessed together they make the best entertainment of any two men on the road. Nye is a born humorist with an inexhaustable storehouse of witicism, while Riley is a poet, mimic and a very clever reader of his own Hoosier dialect verse. Each gentleman appeared last evening in five numbers, alternating each other; one with his laughable humor and witticisms, the other with his dialect verse and pathos. It was really an enjoyable feast of reason, and seldom so large an audience departs from a place of amusement so well satisfied.

EMERALD GROVE.

—No such thing as "grip" here yet.

—Sunday was a wet day. Rain fell in such quantities as would bring to memory times in years gone by. The cold wave during the night fixed the roads up in wonderful rough shape.

—Messr. Dwight Gilson and Charles Harris left last week for Hopkinsville, Kentucky, where they both have employment in a wholesale tobacco establishment.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stinson, of Oakdale, Nebraska, are visiting at C. W. Boynton, Mrs. Stinson was an adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boynton, and it has been several years since she was in this neighborhood.

—Owing to the storm on Sunday evening Rev. D. R. Grover did not give his lecture, but will on next Sunday evening. Subject: "The Life of Joseph." Come and hear him.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated at zero. Clear with northwest wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 7 degrees above zero. Clear with northwest wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 42 and 45 degrees above zero.

A poor unfortunate in Milwaukee is said to have sneezed to death. Alas! poor creature, living in the light of the nineteenth century and never heard of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Well, this is more than Egyptian darkness!

Emery Mills Burned.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 16—The mills of the Walpole Emery company, located at South Walpole, Mass., were burned at midnight. The estimated loss is: On building, $25,000; on machinery, $20,000; and on stock, $15,000. The property was insured.

Rheumatism.

Is undoubtedly caused by lactic acid in the blood. This acid attacks the fibrous tissues, and causes the pains and aches in the back, shoulders, knees, ankles, hips, and wrists. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive cure for rheumatism. This medicine, by its purifying action, neutralizes the acidity of the blood, and also builds up and strengthens the whole body.

THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

THE LOCAL COMMITTEE ARRANGING FOR THE FEBRUARY MEETING.

The committee of arrangements for the Wisconsin Press Association was in session yesterday afternoon. It was decided to give a reception and ball at the Light Infantry armory on Tuesday evening, Feb. 19. The programme will include an address of welcome by the mayor, a response by a member of the association, a paper on some interesting topic, music and recitations by local talent.

The literary programme will be given at 7:30 and the reception at 9 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening Scott, of the Chicago Herald and Opie Reid, of the Arkansas Traveler, will speak at some public place.

The day sessions of the association will probably be held at the rooms of the Business Men's Association. The committee will call on our business men for financial help to make the occasion creditable to the city. One hundred dollars has already been subscribed, and there should be no difficulty in obtaining a liberal fund. This will be the best opportunity ever presented to thoroughly advertise Janesville. The association asks for nothing in the way of entertainment. It is simply a question of courtesy that cities throughout the country recognize with pleasure. The city of Denver spent $5,000 in extending hospitalities to the national association two years ago, and the common council of Hancock, Michigan, appropriated $500 to the editors of the northern peninsula last winter, the citizens supplementing that sum by $600 more. A special train was placed at the disposal of the association, and the iron and copper country was thoroughly investigated.

It remains for the citizens to say how much or how little shall be done in the way of hospitality in Janesville.

SHOPIERE.

—Miss Lella Harding is home for a short time.

—Mr. Will Cook has gone to Chicago to spend the winter.

—Mr. Albert Thomas, of Dakota, is visiting friends in this place.

—Mr. Icabod Merriman is stopping with Mr. B. H. Smith for a few days.

—Messrs. Charles Howard and Chas. Van Galder have gone to Appleton to school.

—Mr. George March, an old pioneer of this place, and one who went to California in 1849, has been very sick for the past week.

—There has been quite a number of sales of tobacco within the past two weeks at fair prices. Almost all tobacco is stripped and ready for sale.

—The La Grippe has arrived in this place. Quite a number have had it. Among he first were a couple of the Peake brothers They of course have pulled through all right.

SHOPIERE STATION.

—Heavy rains have raised the creek and thoroughly soaked the ground.

—DeWitt Q. Starks will add to his stable another blooded stallion for the coming season.

—The season's shipment of hay and straw at this station has been very large.

—There is a good deal of grain in the hands of farmers in this section, and some fine crops of tobacco.

—Mrs. James Chamberlain has recovered from her severe illness and is again able to be about.

—Mr. I. Merriman and Miss Marvin A. Dixon, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, are visiting at B. H. Smith's.

—Our station agent has nearly completed a store and residence which will soon be occupied,

—A call is out for a meeting of all interested in a creamery to be held at the depot on Thursday, Jan. 16th, at 10 o'clock a. m., to consider the subject. A responsible party stands ready to erect and have ready for work a first class creamery by the first of March if the milk of 500 cows can be depended upon.

—Mr. Albert Thomas, of Ellendale, North Dakota, has been shaking hands with old friends the past week. He reports hard times and light crops in his section, but no suffering.

—Thomas O'Brien raised on the farm of B. H. Smith, 2,716 pounds of tobacco on 1⅛ acres of land. It was set in rows 30 inches wide, 16 inches in the row, put in early and given the best of care, and grew very evenly.

—We are proud of the prosperity of Janesville and Beloit. Three hundred and thirty-six thousand dollars worth of improvements in Janesville and two hundred a sixty-seven thousand in Beloit is not a bad showing. The improvements in LaPrairie and Turtle will not replace the depreciation and yet there is no change in the county assessment. An increase of $600,000 in the wealth of two cities ought to count somewhere.

—We have been putting up some of the Harmless spur wire for fence and think we have got something that will not tear horses and that will prove as efficient as barb wire. It ought to be sold cheaper and every horseman ought to try it.

HYDROPHOBIA IN ENGLAND.

Some Very Curious Statistics Relating to This Terrible Disease.

About hydrophobia, the Registrar-General has, in his report just issued, made an important deduction from his mortality returns, says the London Daily News. By taking groups of counties and studying the death rate from hydrophobia in the districts thus mapped out during the years 1869-88, he finds that the disease has two great centers in this country. The death rate diminishes according to the distance from these centers. Lancashire is the head and front of the offending as regards hydrophobia. From that dreaded disease the annual deaths per million of the population are in Lancashire 3.39. This is far in excess of the death rate from the same cause in any other part of the kingdom. The figures most nearly approaching it are 2.41 in Cheshire and 2.43 in the West Riding, contiguous districts. The other center is said to be London, because here the deaths are 1.59 per million, diminishing to 1.45 in the extra metropolitan portions of Middlesex, Surrey, and Kent. These are high figures in comparison with the low death rate in other southern counties. The conclusions of the Registrar-General are apparently confirmed by the Agricultural Department's account of the geographical distribution of rabies in animals. Naturally, the next thing the Registrar-General wants to know is whether these two centers of rabies and hydrophobia can be distinguished from the rest of the country as to the numbers and characters of the dogs inhabiting them. This is an inquiry worth making. Meanwhile, the facts already ascertained justified the muzzling order in London. The precise number of deaths from hydrophobia in 1888 was fourteen. There were five in Lancashire, six in London or adjoining counties, one in Wiltshire, one in Cumberland, and one in Glamorganshire.

BATTLE WITH A TRAMP.

Conductor Lenahan Has a Desperate Struggle on a Car.

HE BARELY MISSES DEATH.

A Tramp Hurls Him from the Top of a Fast Moving Freight Train.

Two men fought desperately on top of a freight car as the 5 o'clock Northwestern freight approached St. Mary's avenue yesterday morning. With only the icy roof for a foot hold, they swayed back and forth, slipped from side to side, and the smaller of the two barely saved himself twice from being thrown headlong to the frozen ground.

"Its going to be you or me," yelled his adversary, and he broke his hold for a moment, apparently to use some weapon that he had in his pocket.

The smaller man was Conductor Lenahan, and he has probably handled more tough tramps than any man of his size in Wisconsin.

Spat!

His fist had been driven into the big man's face fairley between the eyes. From the sound the burly wrestler might as well have been hit by a ball club. But he never staggered. His arm swung back swiftly and his adversary ducked just in time to miss a blow from an ugly looking slung shot.

There was another grapple, the forms of the two men standing out in bold relief against the snow covered embankment. Train men were hurrying over the tops of the cars, lanterns in hand, to have a share in ending the struggle. As the first one got within three car lengths, the big man twined his leg around the other's ankle and tossed him backward.

"Go down;——you!" he grunted.

"Then you go too."

The train crew, as they saw the conductor pitch off the edge of the car, saw him drag the other with him. They looked expecting to see the two ground to death under the wheels, but both were on their feet in an instant. For Conductor Lenahan a cushion of snow had broken the fall. Without turning to see whether his opponent was in shape for business or not he grasped the hand rail of the caboose as it passed and swung himself on board. As he looked back he saw the big man, who had fallen partly beneath him, was limping away, his arm hanging by his side as if badly bruised.

"That was the sharpest tussle I've had for a long time," remarked the conductor as he stood in the Northwestern freight depot a few minutes later brushing cinders from his coat. From the way that man fought I think he was about six feet seven inches high. I found him on top of the car.

"'Where are you going?' I said.

"'None of your —— business.'

"I would have climbed him when he said that if he had been as big as a six-wheel freight engine. I hit him one in the face as hard as I could swing it but it never budged him. He didn't seem to know that anything had touched him. Then we clinched and I knew by the weight of him that it was going to be a close call whether he would take the dive off the car or whether I would. I think I was in luck to get out as light as I did."

"Are there many tramps on the road just now?" he was asked.

"They are around in swarms. The warm weather has kept them up north, and most of them haven't clothes enough to wad a gun. Down in the switch yards they are ugly people to meet, for any one who looks as if he had any money about him is in luck if he gets away without being hit with a coupling pin. A caboose that is left alone for ten minutes would be stripped as clean as a poor house pantry. Most of the 'hoboes' are cowards, and will run rather than fight any time, but there are some dangerous ones. They carry guns—well, for that matter, nearly all of them do; and they have no objection to using them.

"It may cost a train man his job if tramps stow themselves away on his train, for car seats will be broken and a good deal of stuff is likely to be missing. Then, on the other hand, it may cost him a dive under the wheels if he tries to put them off.

"One thing I never understood about the tramps we strike along railroads, is that they always have their pockets filled with jewelry. It never is anything but this cheap stuff you can buy for forty cents a peck, and they can't be saving it for its value, but they have it just the same.

"Some of them arrange about their fare before we have a chance to get in our work. One night when I was running out of Milwaukee I found a car door open and climbed inside. There was a big-fisted fellow in the corner taking things very easy.

"'Where are you going?' I asked.

"'Going right through.'

"'Got any money?'

"'No.'

"'How do you expect to get through, then?'

He pulled out a knife about eighteen inches long.

"'My friend,' he said, 'I'm traveling on this. When anybody tries to put me off, I get desperate.'

"'That settles it," I said. 'You can own the train. I don't want to tackle you.'

"Another time I saw the end door of a car partly open and I started to climb in while the train was running forty miles an hour. I hadn't any more than got my head in before some fellow with a fist like John L. Sullivan hit me right between the eyes. It would have knocked over a horse and it sent me pitching back through the window as if I had been struck by a club. I just had sense enough to grab the brake beam and I hung there by one hand. As soon as I could I crawled back over the cars to the caboose and fished out an old pick handle that I kept to help make my friends feel at home. I started down to the car where I was slugged, and when I climbed back out of that window the next time there was a wad of something piled up in one corner that might have been a man and it might not. We cut the car out forty-five miles further down, and I never found out whether the tramp came to all right or not."

And Conductor Lenahan whistled a few bars of the explanation regarding the fate of Mr. McGinty and signaled the train to pull ahead.

Joseph Cook says: "Not since I heard Wendell Phillips on Daniel O'Connel have I heard a lecture which equaled in elegance and eloquence Dr. Gunsalus' lecture on Savonarola."

—Rice & Gifford are doing a rushing business in the poultry line and are shipping the same to Buffalo, N. Y.

Among the new choice strawberries for early shipping to northern markets from the South, Michels' Early ranks in the St. Louis market as a "fancy large," and commands a higher price than the old standards.

Minnesota has passed a law to prevent the practice of fraud by tree peddlers in the sale of nursery stock. Peddlers from other States before being allowed to sell, must file an affidavit with the Secretary of State of Minnesota that they are "all right," and enter into $2,500 bonds to the same effect.

The strongest wood in the United States, according to Professor Sargent, is that of the nutmeg hickory of the Arkansas region, and the weakest is the West India birch. The most elastic is the tamarack, the white or shelbark hickory ranking far below it. The wood having the highest specific gravity, is the blue wood of Texas.

Experiments are now being made in Italy upon this year's vintage in the electrification of wine. Fifty different sorts of wine have already been experimented upon, and the results have been very satisfactory. The wine is clarified, acquires a "boquet," and is said to stand equally well transport by land or long journeys by sea.

President McLought, of Dakota Experiment Station, says two things are greatly needed in Dakota—trees and birds. These will work marvels. The trees will produce both climatic and etomological changes by modifying the temperature, influencing the rainfall, and providing a shelter for birds. The birds will destroy insects and larva and thus reduce by a large per cent. danger to crops.
